Music influences people in different ways or the same person differently at different times. Music may seem to influence people differently. That is because people can react differently to the music. We are able to apply a choosing process to the music we hear. If someone hates jazz, then a jazz piece with a positive effect will probably not make him feel good. A happy song might appear to make an angry person angrier, yet it is not the music itself that is creating the anger; rather it is the positive effect of the music. The angry person does not want to accept the song's happy feeling: it points out his already existing anger, and makes that anger come to the surface. When a piece of music is played and we are listening to it, our body, mind, and feelings are being affected. The musicians of ancient cultures such as China, India, Turkey and Greece understood the effects of music. In fact, Pathagoras, in ancient Greece, introduced a whole science that concerned them. I. READING:

Read the passage carefully and choose the correct answer.

After two decades of growing student enrollments and economic prosperity , business schools in the United States have started to face harder times. Only Harvard's MBA School has shown a substantial increase in enrollments in recent years. Both Princeton and Stanford have seen decreases in their enrollments. Since 1990, the number of people receiving Masters in Business Administration (MBA) degrees, has dropped about 3 percent to 75,000, and the trend of lower enrollment rates is expected to continue.

There are two factors causing this decrease in students seeking an MBA degree. The first one is that many graduates of four-year colleges are finding that an MBA degree does not guarantee a plush job on Wall Street or in other financial districts of major American cities . Many of the entry-level management jobs are for students graduating with Master of Arts degrees in English and the humanities as well as those holding MBA degrees. Students have asked the question, " Is an MBA degree really what I need to be best prepared for getting a good job?" The second major factor has been the cutting of American payrolls and the lower number of entry-level jobs being offered. Business needs are changing , and MBA schools are struggling to meet the new demands.

Read the passage carefully and choose the correct answer.

After two decades of growing student enrollments and economic prosperity , business schools in the United States have started to face harder times. Only Harvard's MBA School has shown a substantial increase in enrollments in recent years. Both Princeton and Stanford have seen decreases in their enrollments. Since 1990, the number of people receiving Masters in Business Administration (MBA) degrees, has dropped about 3 percent to 75,000, and the trend of lower enrollment rates is expected to continue.

There are two factors causing this decrease in students seeking an MBA degree. The first one is that many graduates of four-year colleges are finding that an MBA degree does not guarantee a plush job on Wall Street or in other financial districts of major American cities . Many of the entry-level management jobs are for students graduating with Master of Arts degrees in English and the humanities as well as those holding MBA degrees. Students have asked the question, " Is an MBA degree really what I need to be best prepared for getting a good job?" The second major factor has been the cutting of American payrolls and the lower number of entry-level jobs being offered. Business needs are changing , and MBA schools are struggling to meet the new demands.

GLOBAL WARMING

Few people now question the reality of global warming and its effects on the world's climate. Many scientists (36)_____ the blame for recent natural disasters on the increase (37)_____ the world's temperatures and are convinced that, more than ever before, the Earth is at (38)_____ from the forces of the wind, rain and sun. According to them, global warming is making extreme weather events, (39)_____ as hurricanes and droughts, even more (40)_____ and causing sea levels all around the world to (41)_____.

Environmental groups are putting (42)_____ on governments to take action to reduce the amount of carbon dioxide which is given (43)_____ by factories and power plants, thus attacking the problem at its source. They are in (44)_____ of more money being spent on research into solar, wind and wave energy devices, which could then replace existing power (45)_____.

Some scientists, however, believe that even if we stopped releasing carbon dioxide and other gasses into the atmosphere tomorrow, we would have to wait several hundred years to notice the results. Global warming, it seems, is to stay.

Read the following passage then choose the correct answer by circling its corresponding letter A, B, C, or D.

In the 1870s, two inventors - Elisha Gray and Alexander Graham Bell - independently developed devices for transmitting speech electrically, an invention which would become known as the telephone. [1]Both men rushed their respective designs to the patent office within hours of each other; however, Bell patented his telephone first. The telegraph and telephone are both wire-based electrical systems, and Bell's success with the telephone came as a direct result of his attempts to improve the telegraph. [2]

When Bell began experimenting with electrical impulses, the telegraph had been an established means of communication for more than 30 years. [3] It was a highly successful system, but its dot-and-dash Morse code was limited to receiving and sending one message at a time. Bell's extensive knowledge of the nature of sound and his understanding of music contributed to his concept of transmitting multiple messages over one wire simultaneously. [4] His "harmonic telegraph" was based on the principle that several notes could be sent simultaneously along the same wire if the notes or signals differed in pitch.

Question 46: What is the main idea of the passage?

A. Bell wasn't the only person to invent the telephone.
B. Bell was the first person to patent the telephone.
C. Bell invented the telephone after trying to improve the telegraph.
D. The wire telegraph was limited.

Read the following text to answer the questions or to complete the sentences below by circling the corresponding letter A, B, C or D.

Water scarcity is fast becoming one of the major limiting factors in world crop production. In many areas, poor agricultural practices have led to increasing desertification and the loss of formerly arable lands. Consequently, those plant species that are well adapted to survival in dry climates are being looked at for an answer in developing more efficient crops to grow on marginally arable lands.

Plants use several mechanisms to ensure their survival in desert environments. Some involve purely mechanical and physical adaptations, such as the shape of the plant's surface, smaller leaf size, and extensive root systems. Some of the adaptations are related to chemical mechanisms. Many plants, such as cacti, have internal gums and mucilages which give them water-retaining properties. Another chemical mechanism is that of the epicuticular wax layer. This wax layer acts as an impervious cover to protect the plant. It prevents excessive loss of internal mixture. It also protects the plant from external aggression, which can come from inorganic agents such as gases, or organic agents which include bacteria and plant pests.

Researchers have proposed that synthetic waxes with similar protective abilities could be prepared based on knowledge of desert plants. If successfully developed, such a compound could be used to greatly increase a plant's ability to maintain health in such adverse situations as inadequate water supply, limited fertilizer availability, attack by pests, and poor storage after harvesting.

Question 71: This passage deals mainly with _____.

A. desertification B. decreasing water supplies

C. factors limiting crop production D. developing efficient plants

Read the following passage then choose the correct answer by circling its corresponding letter A, B, C, or D.

In the 1870s, two inventors - Elisha Gray and Alexander Graham Bell - independently developed devices for transmitting speech electrically, an invention which would become known as the telephone. [1]Both men rushed their respective designs to the patent office within hours of each other; however, Bell patented his telephone first. The telegraph and telephone are both wire-based electrical systems, and Bell's success with the telephone came as a direct result of his attempts to improve the telegraph. [2]

When Bell began experimenting with electrical impulses, the telegraph had been an established means of communication for more than 30 years. [3] It was a highly successful system, but its dot-and-dash Morse code was limited to receiving and sending one message at a time. Bell's extensive knowledge of the nature of sound and his understanding of music contributed to his concept of transmitting multiple messages over one wire simultaneously. [4] His "harmonic telegraph" was based on the principle that several notes could be sent simultaneously along the same wire if the notes or signals differed in pitch.

Question 31: What is the main idea of the passage?
A. Bell wasn't the only person to invent the telephone.
B. Bell was the first person to patent the telephone.
C. Bell invented the telephone after trying to improve the telegraph.
D. The wire telegraph was limited.

GLOBAL WARMING

Few people now question the reality of global warming and its effects on the world's climate. Many scientists (1)_____ the blame for recent natural disasters on the increase (2)_____ the world's temperatures and are convinced that, more than ever before, the Earth is at (3)_____ from the forces of the wind, rain and sun. According to them, global warming is making extreme weather events, (4)_____ as hurricanes and droughts, even more (5)_____ and causing sea levels all around the world to (6)_____.

Environmental groups are putting (7)_____ on governments to take action to reduce the amount of carbon dioxide which is given (8)_____ by factories and power plants, thus attacking the problem at its source. They are in (9)_____ of more money being spent on research into solar, wind and wave energy devices, which could then replace existing power (10)_____.

Some scientists, however, believe that even if we stopped releasing carbon dioxide and other gasses into the atmosphere tomorrow, we would have to wait several hundred years to notice the results. Global warming, it seems, is to stay.

Read the following passage then choose the correct answer by circling its corresponding letter A, B, C, or D.

In the 1870s, two inventors - Elisha Gray and Alexander Graham Bell - independently developed devices for transmitting speech electrically, an invention which would become known as the telephone. [1]Both men rushed their respective designs to the patent office within hours of each other; however, Bell patented his telephone first. The telegraph and telephone are both wire-based electrical systems, and Bell's success with the telephone came as a direct result of his attempts to improve the telegraph. [2]

When Bell began experimenting with electrical impulses, the telegraph had been an established means of communication for more than 30 years. [3] It was a highly successful system, but its dot-and-dash Morse code was limited to receiving and sending one message at a time. Bell's extensive knowledge of the nature of sound and his understanding of music contributed to his concept of transmitting multiple messages over one wire simultaneously. [4] His "harmonic telegraph" was based on the principle that several notes could be sent simultaneously along the same wire if the notes or signals differed in pitch.

Question 11: What is the main idea of the passage?
A. Bell wasn't the only person to invent the telephone.
B. Bell was the first person to patent the telephone.
C. Bell invented the telephone after trying to improve the telegraph.
D. The wire telegraph was limited.

Question 12: Which is the best place of the following sentence?
"Although the idea had been in existence for some time, he offered his own musical approach as a solution."

Read the following text to answer the questions or to complete the sentences below by circling the corresponding letter A, B, C or D.

Water scarcity is fast becoming one of the major limiting factors in world crop production. In many areas, poor agricultural practices have led to increasing desertification and the loss of formerly arable lands. Consequently, those plant species that are well adapted to survival in dry climates are being looked at for an answer in developing more efficient crops to grow on marginally arable lands.

Plants use several mechanisms to ensure their survival in desert environments. Some involve purely mechanical and physical adaptations, such as the shape of the plant's surface, smaller leaf size, and extensive root systems. Some of the adaptations are related to chemical mechanisms. Many plants, such as cacti, have internal gums and mucilages which give them water-retaining properties. Another chemical mechanism is that of the epicuticular wax layer. This wax layer acts as an impervious cover to protect the plant. It prevents excessive loss of internal mixture. It also protects the plant from external aggression, which can come from inorganic agents such as gases, or organic agents which include bacteria and plant pests.

Researchers have proposed that synthetic waxes with similar protective abilities could be prepared based on knowledge of desert plants. If successfully developed, such a compound could be used to greatly increase a plant's ability to maintain health in such adverse situations as inadequate water supply, limited fertilizer availability, attack by pests, and poor storage after harvesting.

Question 51: This passage deals mainly with _____.

A. desertification
B. decreasing water supplies
C. factors limiting crop production
D. developing efficient plants

Question 52: The word "arable" in the first paragraph is closest in meaning to _____.

A. fertile
B. parched
C. barren
D. marsh

Question 53: Which of the following is a mechanical or physical mechanism that desert plants use?

A. The plant's shape
B. The small root system
C. The vast leaf size
D. The high water consumption

Question 54: The word "extensive" in the second paragraph is closest in meaning to _____.

A. spongy
B. shallow
C. widespread
D. comprehensive

Question 55: Which is one of the ways in which the epicuticular wax protects the plant?

A. It helps the plant to avoid excessive moisture intake.
B. It helps the plant to attack aggressors.
C. It releases gases against plant pests.
D. It guards against bacteria.

Question 56: The word "it" in the second paragraph refers to_____.

A. another chemical mechanism
B. the epicuticular wax layer
C. an impervious plant like cover
D. the loss of internal moisture

Question 57: The word "aggression" in the 2nd paragraph is closest in meaning to_____.

A. attack
